Where are they now?

Leanne Claxton

Leanne continued studying on the Art Foundation course at Winstanley before progressing to Printed Textile Design at Central Saint Martins in London.

She moved to Paris, where she worked for legendary designer Christian Lacroix and has worked with clients in London, New York and Hong Kong.

Learning outside the classroom

We provide opportunities to take part in a wide range of enrichment activities such as educational visits to national and international locations. In recent years students have enjoyed reference gathering trips to Morocco, Thailand, London, Liverpool, and Manchester they feed these unique experiences directly into their visual work. Our links via the college website allow students to access specialist learning resources in their independent learning time, we provide open access learning environments for art and design students.

Throughout the year and across the courses and disciplines there are opportunities to enter internal and external competitions and live briefs.

At the end of the second year you also have the chance to present your highly creative and individual work in a summer exhibition.

Study Support

When you enrol we will make sure that you are receiving all the support you need, for example you may be entitled to extra time in your exams, help with written analysis/annotation or practical support from our specialist technicians.

Academic Challenge

A popular route to university for our A Level students is via our thriving Art Foundation course, where students are allowed to explore a range of disciplines as they progress towards their chosen pathway. Specialist portfolio advice will be provided for students wishing to progress to a course at higher education. If you are keen to pursue a creative future you will receive help with choosing which university and which course is right for you. We will support your development of interview skills, providing portfolio guidance as well as inspiring you with enrichment activities and trips. Winstanley students already studying creative subjects at university will visit to relay their experiences and guest speakers from a range of institutions will provide an insight into being a student of art and design at higher education establishments.

From school pupil to Winstanley student

We would like you to have completed a creative course at GCSE, but in circumstances where this is not the case we have conducted portfolio interviews based on work produced outside of education. There are a number of open days, masterclasses, and taster days for pupils to take part in before studying Art at Winstanley. At these events you will be able to build familiarity with the staff and the environment.
